Language is not merely a communication tool. The ability to speak and write articulately with confidence, and understand others helps us to win friends and influence people in both business and personal arenas.

It is therefore of vital importance for young children to grasp all elements of a language from the very beginning. In this program, Children learn to spell words by writing their sounds, and read aloud their own writing, thus the name The Writing Road to Reading with Phonics.

All children want to do well in speech, writing, spelling, and reading. These skills are basic to our culture, and writing is the one that does most to unite and reinforce the others. Getting a child to understand and follow the mechanics of each of these processes is vital.

In The Writing Road to Reading with Phonics, all elements of the language are reinforced in spelling, writing, and reading lessons.
