School readiness is more than knowing the ABC's

In order to learn in elementary school and be successful students, children must develop the ability to self-regulate, be able to speak up clearly and confidently, and be introduced to a wide range of studies that promotes underlying cognitive competencies.

Bambini Playwork does exactly that by taking our budding leaders through a widely-based curriculum that focuses on their communication skills as well as cognitive and social-emotional regulation development, paving the path for communicative leadership and academic excellence.

👤 Children gain control of their social, emotional, and cognitive behaviors by learning how to use a variety of “mental tools”.

👤 Children learn to regulate their own behaviors as well as the behaviors of their friends as they enact increasingly more complex scenarios in their imaginary play and learning activities.

👤 Children are led through an array of speech development exercises while exploring dramatic text in a dynamic environment. Children will also be gently introduced to public speaking in a creative and encouraging environment.

👤 Teaching of early literacy, creative arts, social studies, mathematics, and science emphasizes building underlying cognitive competencies such as reflective thinking and metacognition.
